The organic farm is a feature unique to the Oxford campus. Students can be a part of the farm-to-table experience through the work-study program, classes, and volunteering.

A great way to learn about the farm and our local food system is to choose classes that participate with the farm. Anthropology, Sociology, and Environmental Science disciplines regularly take advantage of the farm, including Anthropology (Dr. Ham), Sociology (Dr. Shannon), and Environmental Science (Dr. Inge and Dr. Martin).

Check out our Facebook page and Instagram to see what's happening on the farm!
